A visit with veterans

Chief Master Sgt. John Pope (at right) and his wife Gloria share a moment of laughter with Lee Benton, a U.S. Marine Corps Vietnam War veteran and one of the more than 70 patients cared for at the Veterans Administration Medical Center in Big Springs, Texas. More than 30 servicemembers and civilians from Goodfellow made the almost two-hour-long drive to spend a few hours visiting with patients. See Page 3 for more details and photos about the visit. Holiday mailing deadlines

Deadlines for mailing holiday packages to servicemembers overseas are rapidly approaching. The Postal Service is providing free "mailing kits" each containing four Priority Mail boxes, six Priority Mail flat rate boxes, 10 Priority Mail labels, one roll of Priority Mail tape and 10 customs forms with envelopes. Send as much as you can fit into a priority mail flat-rate box to any APO or FPO address for $8.10, regardless of weight. Pay attention to the suggested deadlines as mailing is expected to be heavy this year.

The following are for Christmas Delivery. Hanukkah deadlines are 10 days earlier. Express Mail Military Service-Tuesday EMMS not available for APO/FPO.

Home for the Holidays POC

Many San Angelo families invite military personnel to their homes for the upcoming holidays.

The point of contact for this program, called Home for the Holidays, is Staff Sgt. Woodrow Roric, 654-5040.

Copper awarded Bronze Star

By STAFF SGT. CARISSA LEE

EDITOR

An Airman from Goodfellow was recently awarded the Bronze Star Medal for his exceptional meritorious conduct and service during a recent deployment to Camp Bucca, Iraq.

Capt. Brian Copper, 17th Security Forces Squadron, served as Alpha Flight Leader for the 586th Expeditionary Security Forces Squadron and Delta Flight Leader for the 866th Expeditionary Security Forces Squadron from December 2005 through June 2006, in support of OPERATION IRAQI FREEDOM.

Capt. Copper's duties and responsibilities as the Alpha Flight Leader encompassed area security and convoy operations. He was instrumental in leading the way for the multi-service forces tasked to defend and provide logistical and personnel sustainment for more than 2,000 coalition forces and 9,000 detainees from attack.

Capt. Copper's convoy section executed a weekly average of transporting 700 Iraqi Correctional Officers, traveling more than 8,100 miles between Camp Bucca and Basra, Iraq, under a constant enemy threat, ensuring the success of the Iraqi Correctional Officers program.

The captain also had direct oversight of a monthly average of 134 convoy missions, almost 20,000 miles driven by Air Force drivers transporting more than 4,200 passengers and 1,500 vehicles and their cargo through dangerous Iraqi roadways under constant enemy threat.

He was also hand selected to take command of Delta Flight in the Theater Internment Facility at Camp Bucca, where he was responsible for leading security operations at two detainee compounds, containing a total of more than 1,000 detainees. In addition, the captain was responsible for all detainee escorts, processing and the Quick Reaction Force Operations with more than 120 Airmen under his command.

He was selected as the lead trainer for the Vigilant Thunder riot control exercise, where he transformed the training event into a realistic exercise scenario. His efforts were validated when 344 Airmen and Sailors were certified in handling riot scenarios.

Notification by 17 SFS

All personnel departing Goodfellow during Exodus need to ensure their vehicles are parked 25 meters from any facility on base, otherwise the vehicle will be towed away.

2006 Holiday message for Airmen

From Gen. Bill Looney, Air Education and Training Command commander

To our great AETC Airmen,

As the holidays approach, I encourage you to enjoy everything this time of year has to offer. Traditionally, spending time with friends and loved ones are highlights of the season. As you gather to enjoy the holidays, it's important to remember each Airman in this command--every military member, Air Force civilian and contractor--are integral, vital parts of our AETC family.

Thanks to your diligence and outstanding efforts, AETC did not experience a single traffic fatality during the 2005 holiday season. Simply put, everyone returned safely from the holidays to face the New Year. We need to continue that trend! Before embarking on holiday adventures, take the time to make sure there's no undue risks involved by discussing your travel plans with coworkers, supervisors, and commanders. More importantly, remember the most common cause of traffic fatalities is the mixture of alcohol and automobile operation. So, don't drink and drive and avoid unnecessary risks. Rejoice in the holiday season, but arrive safely and enjoy the fun.

My wife, Marilyn, and I thank you for your continued selfless service to AETC, the Air Force, and our great Nation. We wish you health and happiness in the coming year as well as a safe and joyous holiday season.

☆☆ Looney ☆☆

Holiday message from Col. Scott Bethel

17th Training Wing Commander

First of all, I want to wish everyone a happy and safe holiday.

For those of you traveling, make sure you are well rested. Do not leave work after an eight-hour day and expect to drive for 10 hours--get some sleep and leave the next morning when you're fresh. If you leave after working 8 hours or more, you are putting yourself and others at risk, and it's just not worth it.

Whether you are in a car or on a motorcycle, regardless of where you are going, you must take care and use proper operational risk management safety. The simple act of clicking your seatbelt or putting on a motorcycle helmet could save your life.

Keep in mind there are two things that will not be tolerated--drinking and driving and underage drinking; both are illegal and anyone caught will be punished to the full extent of the law. I know many of you plan to celebrate with family and friends during the holidays--be smart and have a designated driver, or if with other military--a Wingman.

I want everyone to have fun during this season, you have all worked hard and deserve it.

I want to see every member of Team Goodfellow back after the holidays are over.

Goodfellow visits veterans at hospital

"I went once before with Chief Master Sgt. Ronald Gallegos, who has previously coordinated all the Top 3 trips, and Master Sgt. John Teutsch, who is a regular on the VA hospital trips. I enjoyed it so much I vowed I would try to make as many as I could," Master Sgt. Danny Ritz, trip coordinator said.

"I think these visits are important because these vets believe in the military family. It's evident in their faces when they see our uniforms. It's up to us to keep faith with them. Even though we're veterans ourselves, we've benefited from the sacrifices they've made, because they came before us. We owe them," Master Sgt. Ritz added. (Article, photos and page design by Airman 1st Class Luis Loza Gutierrez.)

Tech. Sgt. Kelly Bales joins Army veteran, Jimmy Lewallen on the piano. Mr. Lewallen treated Goodfellow guests to the sounds of rock and roll hits by Jerry Lee Lewis. Sgt. Bales and several Goodfellow visitors showed their musical talents and entertained patients by singing Christmas carols.

Servicemembers and civilian guests from Goodfellow pose for group photo inside the activities room located on the hospital's fifth floor. According to Master Sgt. Ritz, program coordinator, volunteers collected five large boxes filled with enough toiletries and clothes to fill a refrigerator box.

U.S. Marine Corps World War II veterans Lyndall Preslar (far left) and Fred Paulsen (red shirt) talk to Goodfellow visitors about their 40-month experiences as POWs. After more than 30 years apart Mr. Preslar and Paulsen reunited as patients at the VA hospital.

"The thing I missed the most was a clean glass of water because the Japanese would make us go thirsty and starve us. I remember they killed one POW for trying to get a drink of water without asking. Some days it was so bad, we'd wish our own planes would bomb our location just so we could stop our suffering," Mr. Preslar said.

Senior Airman Amber Borczynski listens to one of the veterans at the hospital. Several of the patients made the effort to smile and greet Goodfellow guests despite being physically confined to their beds.

"I know it's not the easiest time to be in the military because of the war right now, but I thank you for your service," Ronald Parrott, a Navy Vietnam vet said in an emotional message of appreciation to Goodfellow visitors.

Lee Benton, a Vietnam War veteran with the Marine Corps, holds up one of more than three dozen paintings located throughout his hospital room. Mr. Benton lost his legs due to a combination of several health problems, but maintains a positive outlook on life and does what he can with his artistic talents and sense of humor to make people's visit or stay at the hospital more enjoyable.

Reserve program offers flexibility for Airmen

By Tech Sgt. Dorian Chapman
PUBLIC AFFAIRS

BMT, HQ, AOR, TDY, IED, GWOT... daily dialogue in the Air Force can quickly become alphabet soup even to those well-versed in military lingo. With so many letters flying around, it is not surprising that information about a program like IMA gets lost in the shuffle.

What is IMA? It means Individual Mobilization Augmentee. Still clear as mud? How about this: Individuals (citizens in the community) get Mobilized (activated by military orders to perform a task) to Augment (supplement) active duty organizations when the need arises.

"Almost every AFSC has IMA personnel fully trained to perform those job tasks," said Tech. Sgt. Margaret Bisko, the 17 TRW Air Reserve Mobility Office manager. For local augmentation, any IMA holding any AFSC can be utilized to fill a vacancy commensurate with their rank. At Goodfellow, 35 IMAs currently work on the base helping complete the mission as fire training instructors, intelligence training instructors and security forces augmentees. Some command positions on base are also filled by IMA personnel during periods of TDY or deployment.

The IMA program differs from the typical Air Force Reserve program in many ways. IMA personnel must work 12 Inactive Duty Training (IDT) days per year, more commonly known as "Drill Days."

"A drill day is four hours," said Senior Airman

Amber Borczynski, an IMA chaplain's assistant with the 100 ARW in Mildenhall, England. "So when I work one eight-hour day, I get credit for two." In this context, "credit" means not only pay, but accrual of points as well. Reserve forces use a point-based system to determine promotion and retirement eligibility.

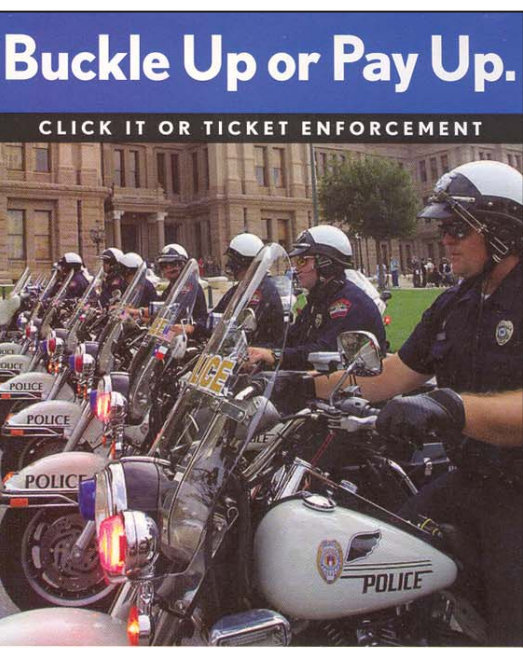

IMA personnel must also work 12 Active Duty days per year. On these days, the Airmen are credited only for each full day they work.

"The best part is that IMAs get to schedule their own days," Airman Borczynski added. The mother of three, who has served on active duty, in the Air National Guard and in the typical Air Force Reserve, says the IMA program gives her the perfect amount of flexibility to raise a family while fulfilling a patriotic responsibility to her country.

Beyond those 24 required calendar days, IMAs have the opportunity to volunteer for longer periods to fill-in during manpower shortages. Airman Borczynski is currently on orders to serve 105 days at the Goodfellow chapel. She volunteered for the assignment despite having to travel halfway around the world to get here from England, where her active duty husband is stationed with their children.

Does this mean that IMAs do not deploy? Absolutely not! IMA personnel often volunteer for deployments, relieving some of the pressure on active duty members to keep up with the deployment rotation. Airman Borczynski deployed to Afghanistan in 2004 for four months.

Schedule announced for release of tax statements

WASHINGTON -- Servicemembers, military retirees and annuitants, and federal civilian employees paid by the Defense Finance and Accounting Service can expect to receive their 2006 tax statements beginning this month, DFAS officials announced today.

DFAS customers with access to the secure, Web-based "myPay" system will be able to retrieve their tax statements electronically up to two weeks sooner than those relying on regular mail delivery, officials said.

The myPay system includes layers of defense against identity theft, officials noted, adding that its technology meets or exceeds security requirements in private industry worldwide.

"Tax statements are available online, allowing customers to view and print W2s and 1099Rs," said Patrick Shine, DFAS operations director.

"Whether anyone needs the statements to complete taxes or just wants an extra copy for their records, the tax statements can be accessed and printed at any time.

The printable statements are approved by the Internal Revenue Service."

Here are projected distribution dates for DFAS customers' tax statements:

- ◆ Retiree Annual Statement: Available on myPay Dec. 9, mailed via U.S. Postal Service Dec. 16-31;
- ◆ Retiree 1099R: Available on myPay Dec. 15, mailed Dec. 16-31;
- ◆ Annuitant Account Statement: Available on myPay Dec. 18, mailed Dec. 19-31;
- ◆ Annuitant 1099R: Available on myPay Dec. 18,

mailed Dec. 19-31;

- ◆ VSI/SSB W-2: Not available on myPay, mailed Jan. 4-5;
- ◆ Active Duty Air Force, Army, Navy W-2: Available on myPay Jan. 22, mailed Jan. 23-29;
- ◆ Reserve Air Force, Army, Navy W-2: Available on myPay Jan. 2, mailed Jan. 5-8;
- ◆ Marine Corps active and reserve W-2: Available on myPay Jan. 5, mailed Jan. 9-10;
- ◆ Civilian employee W-2: Available on myPay Jan. 9, mailed Jan. 11-18;
- ◆ Savings Deposit Program 1099INT: Available on myPay Jan. 19, mailed Jan. 19-20; and
- ◆ Vendor Pay 1099: Not available on myPay, mailed Jan. 27-31.

Mr. Shine added that current myPay account holders can eliminate the costs associated with generating and distributing the tax statements immediately by signing up and using myPay. A personal identification number, or PIN, is required to use the system, and eligible users can apply for one at the myPay Web site, www.mypay.dfas.mil.

Users with military e-mail addresses --addresses in the .mil domain -- or a pre-registered personal e-mail address can receive their new PIN via e-mail. All others will receive their new PIN via mail in about 10 working days from the date of request, officials said.

Customers who already had obtained a PIN but have forgotten it can apply for a new one at the myPay site. (Courtesy of American Forces Press Service)

IMAs are crucial for mission accomplishment. It is not uncommon for organizations to operate with manning numbers below 50 percent. That is the perfect time to request IMA support. However, those interested in serving in an IMA capacity should understand the expectations that come with the position.

"You have to be a team player," said Airman Borczynski. "You have to be able to listen to supervisors and take direction and adapt to new environments." Self discipline and motivation are a must. IMAs are expected to ensure their annual training requirements are fulfilled, as well as maintaining the same standards required of active duty members.

So keep an eye out for our local IMAs and maybe even say thanks. Remember, they've volunteered and made sacrifices to support the same mission we all strive to accomplish.

More than half a century of memories and service

BY AIRMAN 1ST CLASS LUIS LOZA GUTIERREZ

STAFF WRITER

After a career spanning more than half a century, Loretta Cook, chief of intelligence training learning centers is scheduled to retire Jan. 3, 2007, at the Goodfellow Events Center.

Ms. Cook began working at Goodfellow April 12, 1956, just about nine years after the Air Force came into existence.

"I'm old enough to be your great grandmother," the 73-year-old San Angelo native said playfully.

When asked why she didn't retire sooner, Ms. Cook responded with the following,

"I became eligible for retirement in August 1988; at that time my section was just getting involved in converting manual procedures to digital operations. I stayed because I wanted to see that project completed, but the main reason I stayed is that I saw my job as being meaningful, educational, important to our country, and there was something new and special every day."

The long years of service have afforded Ms. Cook many fond memories.

"One of my fondest memories was when the 17th Training Support Squadron honored me with a 50-year-pin and certificate of service on October 3, 2006 and so many of my friends and acquaintances attended," she recalled.

Another one of my fondest memories was when I became chief of intelligence libraries."

Ms. Cook said she became immediately involved in acquiring and controlling intelligence information, a field that was rapidly expanding and one which she wanted to pursue.

"As a result of that, I was honored at the celebration of 45 years of intelligence training at Goodfellow Air Force Base as the only remaining civilian employee assigned when intelligence training began here," Ms. Cook commented.

Another one of Ms. Cook's fondest memories was when she achieved the position of training group commander's secretary.

"I believed at that time I would continue to be in the secretarial field. Unexpectedly, I was selected for promotion to be in charge of base publications and forms. This was an educational experience from which I gained much knowledge of many different base operations and pointed to my next move to head the training group intelligence libraries," said Ms. Cook.

Loretta Cook, helps a student Airman locate an on-screen option inside one of Goodfellow intelligence training testing centers Monday here.

Ms. Cook plans on continuing to make a positive difference by working as a volunteer at San Angelo Community Medical Center after her retirement.

"Her vast experience and pleasant personality enables her to get the best out of everybody she comes in contact with," said Stan Jones, 17th Training Support Squadron Operations Flight chief and Ms. Cook's supervisor of more than 4 years.

"She is the person I go to when I need help getting things done quickly, but correctly. The vast majority of her employees are first-term Airmen. Mrs. Cook fits the role of supervisor and mentor perfectly. Her biggest asset is taking care of those under her supervision. She is the first to come to the aid of employees whether it be on or off-duty," Ms. Cook's appreciative boss added.

Ms. Cook's retirement will mark the end of what some will undoubtedly refer to as an illustrious career while others will see it as a wonderful experience of getting to work and know a wonderful co-worker and person.

NAME: Kyle Boes

RANK: Staff Sergeant

UNIT: 316th Training Squadron

DUTY TITLE: Electronic Systems Security Assessment Instructor

TIME ON STATION: 1 year, 6 months

TIME IN SERVICE: 6 years, 1 month

PREVIOUS BASES: Brooks City Base, Texas

Hobbies: Bowling, rock climbing, fishing, studying the scriptures, and volunteering in the community.

Hometown: Upper Sandusky, Ohio

Aspirations: "To make a difference in the lives of others, to lead by example, and to be the best at whatever I am asked to do. Someday, I hope to be a good father and husband, instilling in my future children the values that have been taught to me."

What do you enjoy most about your job? "I enjoy having the opportunity to shape and mold future leaders of the Air Force. If I can make a difference in one student's life, then I have been successful," Staff Sgt. Boes said.

Favorite quote: "You win with people."

MOVIES

Movies start at 7 p.m. in the base theater unless otherwise noted. Admission is $2 for adults and $1 for children under 11. Movie times and shows are subject to change without notice.

A Good Year

Today

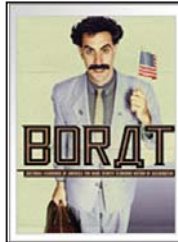

Russell Crowe and Albert Finney star in this film rated PG-13. London-based investment expert Max Skinner travels to Provence to tend a small vineyard he inherited from his late uncle. When he gets suspended from his job under suspicion of fraud, he settles in to life at the chateau, remembering the time he spent there as a child. Then a determined young California girl arrives claiming to be the illegitimate daughter of the deceased uncle and rightful owner of the vineyard.

Borat

Saturday

Sacha Baron Cohan and Kenneth Davitian star in this R-rated film. Borat Sagdiyev, Kazakhstan's sixth most famous man and a leading journalist from the State run TV network, travels from his home in Kazakhstan to the U.S. to make a documentary. On his cross-country road-trip, Borat meets real people in real situations with hysterical consequences.

Flushed Away

Sunday at 6 p.m.

Ian McKellen and Andy Serkis star in this PG-rated film. The story of an uptown rat that gets flushed down the toilet from his penthouse apartment, ending in the sewers of London, where he has to learn a whole new and different way of life.

“Take it Home Today” with new AAFES program

The Army & Air Force Exchange Service (AAFES) is expanding its "TAKE IT HOME TODAY!" initiative, which puts items of necessity and convenience immediately into the hands of military families the world over.

The program makes it possible for Airmen at Goodfellow AFB to immediately enjoy furniture, major appliances, carpeting, mattresses and box springs, as well as select electronics.

The new plan, which was tested at select AAFES exchanges in the United States and overseas last year, includes benefits such as instant credit upon approval, no up front fees or down payment, a low interest rate and low monthly payments.

"Our tests made it clear that shoppers were excited about the opportunity to make a furniture, appliance or other large purchase and take the product home that very same day," said AAFES Main Store Manager Pat Tinker.

"With low interest rates and instant approval, military shoppers can now enjoy their purchase sooner."

With a $299 minimum purchase, major appliances, 27 inch and larger TVs, carpeting, riding lawn mowers, large exercise equipment and spas may be purchased through the "TAKE IT HOME TODAY!" program. Accessories, including end tables, may also apply when they are purchased with a qualifying item.

"This program is perfectly targeted to meet the needs of today's highly mobile military community, especially those members just starting military service or their families," said Tinker.

"Troops will now be able to immediately get the furnishings and appliances needed without incurring a large debt."

"TAKE IT HOME TODAY!" is now available at the Goodfellow BX by applying at the Customer Service counter in the Main Exchange. Authorized exchange customers can call (325) 655-5789 ext 10 to learn more. (Article courtesy AAFES)

Tipsy Tow

Home Motors Inc. and the American Automobile Association Texas will again be sponsoring the "Tipsy Tow" program this holiday season. Motorists who believe they've had too much to drink will be provided a free tow and ride home. The program gets underway at 5 p.m., Dec. 24 and lasts through midnight on Jan. 1, 2007.

Motorists who call (800) 222-4357 may receive a complimentary tow home if they indicate they are intoxicated. Also, if a party host or bartender wants to ensure guests or patrons have a safe ride home, they may contact us for service.

Motorists using the "Tipsy Tow" program need not be members of AAA to receive this free tow up to 10 miles. If an AAA member requests a "Tipsy Tow" on an inoperable vehicle, this will not qualify as a "Tipsy Tow" and will be processed as a regular member call.

The purpose of the "Tipsy Tow" program is to reduce the number of intoxicated motorists on our roads by offering them a safer alternative for getting home. Services will not be provided for motorists requesting a tow to another drinking establishment, repair facility or any other location other than their residence. In some cases, a tow to a hotel may be covered if a motorist is currently or plans to become a guest of the hotel. Additional services not covered are requests to start a vehicle, change a flat tire, deliver gasoline, "taxi" service and requests to transport more than two people with the vehicle.

"Tipsy Tow" will cover mileage up to 10 miles. If the tow exceeds 10 miles, the motorist will be responsible for the extra mileage. The motorist will surrender keys to the driver of the tow truck upon their arrival.

Be responsible, call (800) 222-4357 and request your "Tipsy Tow."

"You drink. You drive. You lose."

...Count down to Exodus

Only 6 days remain!

It's finally here! Exodus begins Thursday at 11:59 p.m. and runs through Jan 2.

Bus tickets to several area airports are still available for purchase at the Goodfellow Events Center. Tickets to Dallas/Fort Worth, Midland-Odessa and San Antonio are all available. When purchasing a bus ticket, people must have their flight itineraries with them. Tickets will be sold through Sunday.

Thursday evening students will form up at the Carswell Field House, Bldg. 340, to await transportation to the airports. People must ensure they schedule their departures no earlier than 8 a.m. Dec. 22 from the airports and to schedule their arrivals back to Texas no later than 3 p.m. on Jan 2, 2007 if they would like transportation back to Goodfellow.

The evening of Exodus has become a tradition on base, with many base agencies playing a part. There is food and entertainment for the troops while they await their departures. The Events Center will have games, movies and snacks until midnight; the bowling center will have games and food until 11 p.m., the library will be open until 9 p.m. for reading and e-mailing home, the base theater will show "Borat" as its 7 p.m. movie and the Shoppette will remain open for shopping until 11 p.m.

People may begin checking in to the Carswell as early as 4 p.m. Check in continues until 10 p.m.

The transportation is also open to permanent party troops stationed at Goodfellow and their family members.

Happy Exodus and happy holidays!

Newcomers' Orientation

The next newcomer's orientation briefing is scheduled for Tuesday at the Events Center. Only individuals who have been scheduled by Airman 1st Class Heather Simila or the commander's support staff must attend in order to maintain data integrity and accountability. The orientation starts at 7:45 a.m. and is an all-day event. For more information, call 654-3307.

Students Authorized for Shipment

Public Law 101-189 grants local commanders and supervisors authority to allow their personnel sufficient time off to receive counseling and arrange for shipment/delivery of personal property. Charges for attempted pickups and deliveries are expensive and can cost the member anywhere from fifty to several hundred dollars. Please ensure personnel are given ample time away from duty station to complete all shipping requirements. Point of contact is Janie Medina, 654-3713.

Airman and Family Readiness Flight

The Airman and Family Readiness Flight offers the following services:

- ◆ Marriage 101 Seminar: Dec. 16, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Open to all, especially engaged or recently married couples. Highlights are: Conflict Resolution, Improving Couple's Communication, Personality Types, Common Expectations, and Keys to a Successful Marriage. Presenters from several base agencies will be on hand to answer questions.
- ◆ Smooth Move: Monday, 1-3 p.m. Help reduce moving-related stress by attending this informative seminar.

Experts from TMO, Finance, Legal Office Claims Processing, SENIOR, Housing, and the Airman and Family Readiness Flight will brief and answer questions about your upcoming move. Spouses are encouraged to attend. Unless otherwise stated, classes are at the Airman and Family Readiness Flight, Bldg. 145.

Personal Briefings

Property

Due to the renovation in Bldg. 423, Personal Property unaccompanied baggage briefings will be conducted in the Vance Deployment Center, Bldg. 431, through Dec. 21. Personnel needing unaccompanied baggage shipments can attend a briefing in the afternoon only at 3:15 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays in Bldg 431. Morning briefings are suspended. Briefings will resume at the TMO Office, Bldg. 423 on Tuesdays and Thursdays beginning Jan. 4, 2007 (No briefings will be held during Exodus). For more information, visit TMO, Bldg. 423, or call Yvonne Mead at 654- 3702 or 3712.

Student Scholarships

The Scholarships for Military Children Program applications, sponsored by the Defense Commissary Agency, are now available for 2007. Applications for the $1,500 scholarships are available at 264 commissaries worldwide, or can be downloaded through links at:www.commissaries.com, www.militaryscholar.org or www.dodea.edu. Applications must be turned in at a commissary by close of business Feb. 21, 2007. The program is open to unmarried children under the age of 21 (23 if enrolled in school) of military active-duty, Reserve, Guard and retired personnel. Eligibility will be determined using the Defense Enrollment Eligibility Reporting System database. The applicant must be planning to attend, or already attending, an accredited college or university full-time in the fall term of 2007, or enrolled in a program of studies designed to transfer directly into a four-year program.
